10 cybersecurity and critical infrastructure by preventing the 11 President from establishing a cybersecurity unit in coordi-
12 nation with the Government of the Russian Federation, 13 a known foreign adversary.

14 SEC. 4. FINDINGS.

15 Congress makes the following findings:

16 (1) On January 6, 2017, an assessment of the 17 United States intelligence community entitled, “As-18 sessing Russian Activities and Intentions in Recent 19 U.S. Elections” concluded, “Russian efforts to influ-
20 ence the 2016 U.S. presidential election represent 21 the most recent expression of Moscow’s longstanding
22 desire to undermine the U.S.-led liberal democratic 23 order, but these activities demonstrated a significant
24 escalation in directness, level of activity, and scope
25 of effort compared to previous operations.” The re-

1 port concluded with high confidence, “Russian Presi-
2 dent Vladimir Putin ordered an influence campaign
3 in 2016 aimed at the U.S. presidential election. Rus-
4 sia’s goals were to undermine public faith in the 5 U.S. democratic process, denigrate Secretary Clin-
6 ton, and harm her electability and potential presi-
7 dency. We further assess Putin and the Russian
8 Government developed a clear preference for Presi-
9 dent-elect Trump.”.

10 (2) On December 29, 2016, President Barack
11 Obama issued Executive Order 13757, “Taking Ad-
12 dditional Steps To Address The National Emergency
13 With Respect To Significant Malicious Cyber-En-
14 abled Activities”. Executive Order 13757 amended 15 Executive Order 13694, “Blocking the Property of 16 Certain Persons Engaging in Significant Malicious
17 Cyber-Enabled Activities”. E.O. 13694 authorized 18 sanctions on “individuals and entities determined to 19 be responsible for or complicit in malicious cyber-en-
20 abled activities that result in enumerated harms that 21 are reasonably likely to result in, or have materially 22 contributed to, a significant threat to the national 23 security, foreign policy, or economic health or finan-
24 cial stability of the United States”. E.O. 13757 ex-25 panded executive authority to allow for the imposi-

1 tion of sanctions against “individuals and entities
2 determined to be responsible for tampering, altering,
3 or causing the misappropriation of information with 4 the purpose or effect of interfering with or under-
5 mining election processes or institutions”.

6 (3) The Government of the Russian Federation
7 has repeatedly launched cyber-attacks against 8 United States agencies, including the Department of 9 State in November 2014, the Department of De-
10 fense in 2015, and the White House computer net-
11 works in 2014.

12 (4) On March 15, 2017, the Department of 13 Justice charged Russian Federal Security Service
14 (FSB) officers and criminal coconspirators for hack-
15 ing Yahoo and the email accounts of millions of 16 United States citizens.

17 (5) On May 8, 2017, former Director of Na-
18 tional Intelligence James Clapper testified before the 19 Committee on the Judiciary of the Senate, “Russia’s 20 influence activities in the run-up to the 2016 elec-
21 tion constituted the high water mark of their long
22 running efforts since the 1960s to disrupt and influ-
23 ence our elections. They must be congratulating
24 themselves for having exceeded their wildest expecta-
25 tions with a minimal expenditure of resource. And I

1 believe they are now emboldened to continue such 2 activities in the future both here and around the 3 world, and to do so even more intensely. If there has 4 ever been a clarion call for vigilance and action
5 against a threat to the very foundation of our demo-
6 cratic political system, this episode is it.”.

7 (6) On June 7, 2017, former Director of the 8 Federal Bureau of Investigations James Comey tes-
9 tified before the Select Committee on Intelligence of 10 the Senate that the Government of the Russian Fed-11 eration, “using technical intrusion, lots of other 12 methods, tried to shape the way we think, we vote,
13 we act. That is a big deal. And people need to recog-
14 nize it. It’s not about Republicans or Democrats.
15 They’re coming after America, which I hope we all
16 love equally. They want to undermine our credibility
17 in the face of the world. They think that this great 18 experiment of ours is a threat to them, and so
19 they’re going to try to run it down and dirty it up 20 as much as possible.”.

21 (7) On July 9, 2017, President Donald Trump
22 stated, “I strongly pressed President Putin twice
23 about Russian meddling in our election. He vehe-
24 mently denied it . . . now it is time to move forward
25 in working constructively with Russia! Putin & I dis-

1 cussed forming an impenetrable Cyber Security unit
2 so that election hacking, & many other negative
3 things, will be guarded”.

4 SEC. 5. FUNDING PROHIBITION.

5 No Federal funds may be used to establish a cyberse-
6 curity unit, or any variation thereof, in cooperation or con-
7 nection with the Government of the Russian Federation.

8 SEC. 6. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

9 It is the sense of Congress that—

10 (1) the President should publicly endorse the 11 assessment of the United States Armed Forces and 12 the intelligence community that the Government of 13 the Russian Federation interfered in the 2016 elec-
14 tion and take appropriate measures to deter such ac-
15 tivities in the future;

16 (2) the President must not use taxpayer funds
17 to engage in cyber coordination with the Government 18 of the Russian Federation, a foreign adversary; and

19 (3) the President should work with Congress to 20 establish a non-partisan, independent commission of 21 experts to determine, examine, and report on the 22 facts regarding the extent of Russian official and 23 unofficial cyber operations and other attempts to 24 interfere in the 2016 United States national election.

1 SEC. 7. TERMINATION.

2 The prohibitions under this Act shall terminate on 3 the date the President submits to the appropriate congres-
4 sional committees a written certification that the Govern-
5 ment of the Russian Federation has—

6 (1) ceased ordering, controlling, or otherwise di-7 recting, supporting, or financing acts intended to 8 undermine democracies around the world; and

9 (2) submitted a written statement acknowl-
10 edging interference in the 2016 United States Presi-
11 dential election.
